DECISIVE Baking Powder Tests

The United States Official

Investigation of Baking Powders, made, by authority of Congress, in the Department of Agriculture, Washington, D. C., furnishes the highest authoritative information as to which powder is the best. The Official Report Shows the ROYAL to be a cream of tartar baking powder, superior to all others in leavening power (U. S. Dept. Agriculture, Bulletin 17, p. 599).

Something New for the Clock.

The revival of an old idea is the decoration of the face of the large clock. The old-fashioned, square clock, standing about twenty or thirty inches high, with the dial in the upper portion, usually has a glass in the lower part of the door. This glass is the field of decoration in this line.

Flowers, vines, bit of landscape or any approved design may be done on the glass plate, which is then set into the frame and securely fastened. It is necessary to see that the hinges of the door are strong and well set. Some of the old clocks have hinges which are merely tiny staples interlocked. These will not do. A heavier hinge must be provided.

The glass over the clock-dial is decorated in the corners with small designs. These must not, however, interfere with the clear view of the Roman numerals on the face of the clock.—N. Y. Ledger.

—Nephew: "Shall we take box seats, uncle?" Uncle Josh: "Box seats nothin' to me! If you ain't got the money to pay for a cheer, I'll loan it to ye."—Indianapolis Journal.

—Have you seen Tom lately? "Saw him only a few minutes ago." "At some political meeting, probably, drinking in eloquence?" "Not exactly; he was drinking in the corner saloon."—Boston Transcript.

—An inopportune invitation.—Saul: "Oh, come here, Charlie, and see this funny picture of a dentist pulling a tooth." Charlie: "I don't want to see it. I am going to have a tooth pulled to-morrow."—Yankee Blade.

—Do not leave me; I am lonely! This was the last vocal item in the too lengthy programme of our amateur concert, and poor little Tompkins, the tenor, had to sing it, just as the worn-out audience rose to go.—Pick-Me-Up.

—Man With Cigarette: "Any objections to lending me your cigar a minute?" Man With Cigar: "Not at all, sir." (Lighting his cigarette with it and returning it.)—"Much obliged." (Throwing the cigar away.)—"Not at all, sir."—Inter-Ocean.

HACKNEYED QUOTATIONS.

Things One Hears Every Day, and How Old They Are.

Arduously, but in vain, do you wish that every rose you see might indeed be "the last rose of summer," so weary are you of hearing them declare it. Make a remark about a name, and they are pining to put the question: "What's in a name?" with an air of conscious and original wit. It seems as if to their constitution a suppressed quotation were as dangerous as a suppressed goat, and were they to enter a darkened room with a companion without a reference to "darkness visible," the quotation might strike inward with fatal effect. Speak of an object of beauty, and they will throw out of their system "A thing of beauty is a joy forever," like a rash that it would be dangerous to suppress. Should you mention any light or sound, soon or heard a little way off, they will trip up your last words by reminding you that "distance lends enchantment to the view." If they call at your house but seldom they will infallibly assert that their visits are like those of angels, "few and far between." If they come often, that they return to you "like a bad penny." Is the practice of quotation, then, to be ruthlessly suppressed, without pity, without exception? Certainly not. There are some quotations which are not merely permissible, but indispensable, and which we feel we could no more do without in writing and conversation than we could get on without shillings and sixpences in commerce.—Spectator.

He was Sick.

Employer.—Mr. Redink, you got off yesterday afternoon under the plea of being sick; I saw you afterward going to the races, and you didn't appear to be at all sick.

Employee.—You ought to have seen me after the second race. I was sick enough, then.—Puck.

For lame back there is nothing better than to saturate a flannel cloth with Chamberlain's Pain Balm and bind it on the affected parts. Try it, and you will be surprised at the prompt relief it affords. The same treatment will cure rheumatism. For sale by Blakemore & Wood, druggists.

Sixty Million Bushels of Wheat—A Bushel for Every Inhabitant of the United States—The Kansas Crop of '92.

Never in the history of Kansas has that State had such bountiful crops as this year. The farmers cannot get enough hands to harvest their crop, and the Santa Fe Railroad has made special rates from Kansas City and other Missouri River towns, to induce harvest hands to go into the State. The wheat crop of the State will be from sixty to sixty-five million bushels, and the quality is high. The grass crop is made, and is a very large one; the early potatoes, rye, barley and oat crops are made, and are all large. The weather has been propitious for corn, and it is the cleanest, best looking corn to be found in the country to-day. Cheap rates will be made from Chicago, St. Louis and all points on the Santa Fe west of the Missouri River, to all Kansas points, on Aug. 26 and Sept. 27, and these excursions will give a chance for eastern farmers to see what the great Sunflower State can do. A good map of Kansas will be mailed free upon application to Jno. J. Byrne, 623 Montauk Block, Chicago, Ill., together with reliable statistics and information about Kansas lands.

It does not follow that a man with husky voice is a corn doctor.—Utica Observer.

Chamberlain's Eye and Skin Ointment.

A certain cure for Chancres, Sore Eyes, Tetter, Salt Rheum, Scald Head, Old Chronic Sores, Fever Sores, Eczema, Itch, Freckle Scratches, Sore Nipples and Piles. It is cooling and soothing. Hundreds of cases have been cured by its use after all other treatment had failed. It is put up in 25 and 50 cent boxes. For sale by Blakemore & Wood.

"What is your favorite play?" "The Iliad of Athens." "Why, nobody produces that." "Yes, that's the reason I like it."—Washington Star.

An honest Swede tells his story in plain but unimpeachable language for the benefit of the public. "One of my children took a severe cold and got the croup. I gave her a teaspoonful of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy, and in five minutes later I gave her some more." By this time she had to cough up the gathering in her throat. Then she went to sleep and slept good for fifteen minutes. Then she got up and vomited, then she went to bed, and slept good for the remainder of the night. She got the croup the second night and I gave her the same remedy with the same good results. I write this because I thought there might be some one in the same need and not know the true merits of this wonderful medicine. CHARLES A. THOMPSON, Des Moines, Iowa. 25 and 50 cent bottles for sale by Blakemore & Wood, druggists.

A Mis-Fit.

Is provoking and generally disagreeable even if the clothes are of the finest material and fashioned after the latest styles. Just a little wrong in this respect makes all wrong. We pride ourselves on our ability to fit any man who isn't an absolute monstrosity. If your arms or legs are long, your body too fat or too thin, and you have never been able to get a fit, let us show you we can do it. We are the only house handling the famous HIGH ART CLOTHING.
